

Seeds that Kill

DNA can be a good friend
– and a lethal enemy...

Julian Bonser

A compelling tale of distorted bloodlines and deadly genetic mayhem.

For Nathan Harcourt, life was idyllic. As a young city professional he enjoyed the usual clichéd ‘work hard, spend hard, play hard’ ethos. But a small problem progressively dogged his life and, against all odds, his loving and seemingly invincible relationship with his beautiful partner Raziya, started to crumble.

Thrown a life-line by a well-wisher – gratis, no strings attached – his life was redeemed in a heartbeat – his life back on track, love and happiness abounding. But it wasn't to last.

Now his smiling benefactor has morphed into the Devil incarnate, set to collect a pound of flesh with sinister determination. Nathan's in an intractable strangle-hold, his whole life heading downward in a fatal tailspin.

And the worst is yet to come – in the form of a wizened and deeply embittered female from Nathan's past, who will seek an eye for an eye with cold, calculated malevolence, play God with his life, and wreak genetic mayhem on his entire family.

Bonds linking one generation to the next are so easily forged with a sigh, a moment of ecstasy, and the miraculous fusion of small cell clusters. But once created, a bloodline remains intact for all perpetuity, unbreakable by even the most powerful forces of Nature. In the life of Nathan Harcourt, this will engender a greasy pit of despair, vitriolic hatred, devastating retribution – incest and murder.

About the Author: Born in early post-war London, Julian Bonser has been fortunate to enjoy a life rich in personal and professional experiences, and extensive travel. Having been an inveterate people-watcher from day one, he is now busy regurgitating his experiences into fictional novels.

PUBLICATION DATE 1 October 2008

ISBN: 978-1848760-066

Price: £7.99

For an author interview or a review copy of the book contact: Julia Fuller
Troubador Publishing Ltd, 9 De Montfort Mews, Leicester LE1 7FW
Tel: 07870 864779 Email: marketing@troubador.co.uk